G.H.I. Bd. Sets Start of Construction Of Free Standing Homes This August

by Rita Fisher

Construction of GHI's four free-standing homes is scheduled to begin this August, according to reports received at the last meeting of the GHI Board of Directors. The four top families on the priority list have met with the architect and discussed the type of homes which will be built and the topography of the area. Time for construction to be completed has been estimated at about 4 months.

The Board recommended that an equitable formula be adopted for assigning lots such as the priority list used in the selection of families for the larger homes.

When one Board member commented that GHI was trying to build $50,000 homes for about $22,000, Board President Charles Schwan confidently added, "We can do it."

Reporting to the Board on a GHI-City Council meeting held recently, Director Nat Shinderman asked the Board to consider the question of maintenance of GHI's common areas (parking lots). Stating that in his opinion no action should be taken to change the existing policy, he felt that it would be a serious mistake if GHI allowed the City to take ownership of the land in that it would become a hindrance for future development.

Director Ed Burgoon, who was attending the meeting for the last time as a Director (he did not choose to run again), stated that he felt that the current maintenance was very good and as to the future, there will probably be no building done on the land. He further commented that there is not enough parking space right now.

GHI Manager Roy Breshears reminded the Board of the upcoming advisory referendum dealing with use of common areas. He suggested that the Board wait to find out the feelings of the membership and then consider changing the current policy, if necessary. This suggestion was accepted in the form of a motion to table, which was approved.

- Bits and Pieces -

Regarding the Annual meeting scheduled for Wednesday, May 18, Roy Breshears stated that he finally got approval from the Board of Education for the use of Center School auditorium as a meeting place. This statement was followed by chuckles from everyone in attendance.

The request from a member to install black shutters on his home at 27-A Ridge was approved by the Board. It was the opinion of one member that this home had the prettiest yard in town.

The Fireman's Mutual Insurance Company, insurer for Greenbelt Homes, Inc., inspected the homes and submitted the statement that "This is a well arranged and maintained housing development."

President Charles Schwan reminded the Board that Vice-President Ed Burgoon was sitting at his last meeting as a Board member and stated Burgoon has had a most distinguished career as a member of the Board and has served the Corporation in almost every capacity. Burgoon stated that although there were a few "problem children" along the way, the Board has been composed of persons of high caliber.

The Board commended this year's audit committee for a job well done.

NOTICE

Petition for a special zoning exception for the construction of a private hospital on parcel 11, scheduled for tomorrow, May 20, has been indefinitely postponed.

Private Hospital Hearing Postponed Indefinitely

by Elaine Skolnik

City Manager James K. Giese, announced yesterday that the petition for a zoning exception for the construction of a private hospital on parcel 11 north of Greenbelt Lake, scheduled for hearing on May 20, has been indefinitely postponed. A letter from William Kahler, attorney for the owners of the land (Bresler, Lerner and Ammerman) advised Giese that the case would not be presented as scheduled because of the uncertain status of the property due to contemplated condemnation proceedings.

The city will oppose the petition since the land involved is among the four parcels the city is considering purchasing with funds made available at last September's referendum. The electorate voted overwhelmingly, 800 to 153, for the proposed $250,000 bond issue to acquire land around Greenbelt Lake.

Council at its Monday meeting urged "full-speed-ahead" on condemnation proceedings and instructed the city manager, James K. Giese, to notify city solicitor, Thomas Brooks, to prepare the necessary papers.

The city submitted an application on Jan. 13, 1966, for a grant to acquire open space under the Housing Act of 1961 as amended. In late March, the Federal government gave Greenbelt the go-ahead signal for proceeding with the parkland acquisition program.

The city sent letters to the owners of parcels 9, 10, 11, and 12. Subsequently, meetings with the owners of parcels 9 and 10, Solomon and Michnick, were held with no settlement on price reached. The city, so far, has received no reply to its letter to owners of the other two parcels (Bresler, Lerner and Ammerman), and a second letter was forwarded last week.

Perimeter Rd. Study Released By Advisory Planning Board

On Monday, May 16, the city council got a complete run down from the Advisory Planning Board on the steps that would be needed to bring the perimeter road to realization.

The APB pointed out in its report #63 that such a perimeter road "is of absolute necessity for proper development of parcels 1 and 2 and to service the three-school complex without destroying existing Greenbelt."

The APB felt that since State and county agencies have contributed to the problems confronting Greenbelt — the dissection by Parkways, the three-school complex, and the granting of higher densities than was originally planned — they should now lend Greenbelt a helping hand.

It saw the big problem in securing the rights of way and the funds needed for planning, land acquisition, and construction. It recommended that council initiate negotiations with interested agencies for assistance in developing the perimeter road. It suggested that a step forward would be designation of the perimeter road as a county or State road.

Properties on which a right of way has to be acquired include the following: (1) Land between Telegraph rd. and Glenn Dale rd. located mostly outside city limits and

GOLDEN TRIANGLE ACTION DEFERRED

Yesterday's Evening Star contained the note that the Prince Georges County Commissioners on May 17 deferred action on the "golden triangle" zoning case which had been remanded to them by the county Circuit Court for a clarification of the reasons why the zoning had been granted. The City of Greenbelt is the plaintiff.

The case involves rezoning of more than 50 acres from residential to commercial in an "island" bounded by Kenilworth Avenue on the west, the Baltimore-Washington Parkway to the northeast and Greenbelt Road to the southeast.

The Star reported that a shopping center is planned on the site by developer Joseph Selig.

Martin Berkofsky, accomplished young pianist, will give a concert and Moshe Medzini, noted Israeli author and political commentator, will be the guest speaker at the forthcoming celebration of Israel's 18th anniversary at the Jewish Community Center on Sunday, May 22 beginning at 8:30 p.m.

Berkofsky, a Greenbelter, has played at Town Hall in New York City, Constitution Hall in Washington and appeared on local television. Medzini, who was born in Irkutsky, Siberia, settled in Jerusalem in 1920 where he began working as an editorial writer, political editor and foreign correspondent throughout Europe and the United States.

Letter Missing In Covenant Case; Action Will Continue

by Al Skolnik

A missing letter may play a role in the outcome of the city's suit against developer Charles Bresler for allegedly violating the covenants on the 50-acre Charlestowne tract, it was disclosed at last Monday's council meeting attended by city solicitor Thomas R. Brooks.

The lost letter is an official notice sent by Bresler to the city manager advising that a building permit had been granted on December 23, 1965 for a 178-unit building on "Parcel B" of Charlestowne Village. The letter added that construction is prepared to start immediately for completion by fall of 1966 or at latest early 1967.

City officials state that they never saw the letter. However, the letter was sent by registered mail and a receipt dated December 24, 1965 was signed by Margaret Perdue, the clerk-dispatcher on duty at the time in the Greenbelt Municipal Building.

City manager James Giese said that the city offices were closed that day and not opened until December 27. The letter he feels, must have disappeared sometime during these days. Mrs. Perdue told the city that she has no recollection of the letter or what she did with it. Giese was out of town for the holidays.

Significance of Letter

The significance of the missing letter lies in the fact that the covenants provide for their enforcement by injunctive proceedings in equity, provided such proceedings are commenced within 30 days after the owners notify the Greenbelt city manager that they have obtained building permits.

Although the council took action on January 17, 1966 directing its solicitor to commence legal action against Bresler, a bill of complaint was not filed with the Circuit Court until March 23, 1966 — well after the 30 days of notice. City officials at that time were operating under the impression that required notice of the building permits had not been given by Bresler.

Fight Goes On

Brooks and the city council stated that they had no intention of diminishing their legal action. The city feels that the intent to violate the covenants is flagrantly clear. The covenants required that density of the 50-acre tract be restricted to 7 units per acre and that construction conform with R-30 zoning, which prohibits high-rise apartments. On both these scores, the high-rise 178-unit building being planned by Bresler is, according to the city, in violation of the covenant.

Bresler also promised to deed 3.33 acres at the bay of the lake to the city for parkland within two years of August 1962. Brooks stated he is now instituting suit for the conveyance of this land.

Several citizens from the audience wanted to know what could be done to stop construction immediately on the 178-unit project. A temporary injunction was suggested, but Brooks declined to discuss the matter because of "strategy reasons."

Senior Citizens Center

A lengthy discussion on the senior citizens center was the other major subject on the council's agenda. The council agreed to table a motion by councilman Dave Champion supporting the Advisory Planning Board's rejection of the city-owned site near Candy Cane City for a senior citizens residential structure.

The group's proposal was to build a cooperatively-owned, 4-story, air-conditioned, apartment building

Woman's Club News

Mrs. Charles McDonald was installed as the President of the Sixth District, the Maryland Federation of Woman's Clubs, Inc., at the 50th Annual Meeting held in Marlow Heights. Sixteen club members from Greenbelt attended.

The monthly Board meeting of the Woman's Club of Greenbelt was held at the home of Mrs. Frank Nixon.

The annual Spring luncheon will be held in the Fort McHenry Room in the Adult Education Building, Univ. of Md., on May 21 at 12:30 p.m.

with a central dining room and hobby rooms. There would be 100 percent Federal financing at 3 percent per annum interest for 50 years. The project would pay the city 2 percent per year of appraised value of land as rental.

Jim Cassels, speaking for the elderly group, stressed the public purpose of the project — most of its facilities would be available to the entire elderly population. The proposed site, Cassels said, is now unsightly and a well-kept elderly home would improve the entire area and the center. The site is also conveniently located for shopping.

The Rev. Kenneth Wyatt, in a letter read in his absence, stated that a truly planned community should have facilities for older persons. Marchal Fuller noted that there is no low-cost public housing in the county.

The council generally felt that it could not justify using parkland for development at a time when the city was trying to acquire additional parkland. Councilman Dick Pilski suggested that plans should be coordinated with urban renewal, thus providing a choice of developed land as well as vacant land for sites.

Councilmen Francis White and Champion wanted a clearer picture of the city's responsibility in the project, especially what financial backing the group would have. Champion also suggested that there might be other sites available such as the Bresler-owned parcel 12 near the fire house.

Councilman Bill Hoff felt that the city had a responsibility to cooperate in any way it could to help achieve a senior citizens center. He was joined in these sentiments by Mayor Edgar Smith, who also felt that the timing was not appropriate and further study was needed.

The councilmen generally agreed that, as a minimum, efforts should be made to provide separate recreational facilities for the elderly.

Charter Changes

Introduced for first reading were two charter changes of minor import. One gave the city council the power to employ legal consultants other than the city solicitor and required that the city solicitor maintain an office within the State of Maryland. The other change provided that an independent audit be made each fiscal year instead of as soon as practicable after the close of each fiscal year.

Special Registration

The council considered once again the matter of a special city voter registration date for Springhill Lake residents. More than 500 such residents had registered for the county and state elections at a special registration day on May 14. Mayor Smith thought it might be advisable to schedule such a special day in June, but the rest of council felt that the city election (scheduled for September 1967) was too far off.

Other Action

The city council voted to recommend denial of a R-18 (medium density apartments) zoning request for an 8-acre tract along Good Luck Road near the entrance to the Greenbelt Regional Park. The land is presently zoned RR (rural-residential) and juts into the park much like the Jaeger tract.

The council agreed to permit the Disabled AmVets to operate once again the concession by Greenbelt Lake . . . Council approved purchase of two new squad cars using county specifications which permitted savings of nearly $300 per car . . . Council approved the reappointment of Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co. as auditors for next year.

Halo Wanted for Festival

To the Editor:

Last Wednesday, there was supposed to be a meeting of the Greenbelt Labor Day Festival Committee's Steering Committee and interested residents of Greenbelt were invited to this meeting to sit in and listen or possibly join the Committee. As it turned out, only the two members of the existing Steering Committee showed up. Obviously, no planning could be done. It would certainly be a shame if a long enjoyed annual event, really a part of the Greenbelt scene, has to become a thing of the past just because a decent sized Steering Committee could not be formed.

We are sure that the many organizations in town are already considering the type of booth they will occupy this year in order to make money. We have already signed a contract with the company furnishing the rides. After purchasing lots of equipment last year, we are pretty sure the Lions Club will hold another Pancake Breakfast. Inquiries have been received regarding the rules and regulations of the Miss Greenbelt Contest. There has already been discussion concerning another Art Show and a concert by the N.S.A. Choral group. We are trying to get a large stand in order to hold more special activities in the main carnival area. We are hoping to be able to have a free public dancing area. The parade is being planned.

But we need a Steering Committee to help schedule these and many more expected events. Please, citizens of Greenbelt, come to our aid. We'd hate to see such a wonderful time of year go by without a Festival. And we'd hate to think that, because there was no Festival, persons would go out of town on the hazardous busy highways and risk their lives looking for a little diversion from their every day - every weekend routine. Startled At Bresler

To the Editor:

I wonder if the rest of Greenbelt's residents were as startled as I was to read in Sunday's Washington papers of Spiro T. Agnew's invitation to Charles Bresler to run as the Republican candidate for State Comptroller?

The article in the Star made mention of Mr. Bresler's recent land dealings for the State. I wonder how much is known of his land dealings against this city?

City Notes

What seemed like a mountain of debris came out of the municipal swimming pool when the Public Works Dept. crew drained out the water this spring for its annual cleaning. They have been busy this week painting the interior of the pools with a white cement coating. In addition, they have been cleaning out roadside debris and trash throughout the city.

A more positive approach to the beautification of the city was taken in the recent planting activities of the department. Five hawthorn trees and five golden chain trees were set out on the piece of parkland between the Center School driveway and the west parking lot. A tall hedge was planted at the northwest corner of the Municipal Building, and crown vetch was placed on the steep bank between 10 Ct. of Southway and the Co-op filling station, in the hopes that it would help to prevent further erosion there.

Two public walkways have also received attention. One leading from the Center School through 10 Lakeside has been excavated. Another, cutting through the woods between 4 and 6 Cts. of Ridge and descending to Lakeside at Maplewood Ct., has been graded and broadened. Both ends will receive a hardtop surface and the center section will be graveled.

Through a special purchase in cooperation with the county police department, the city was able to effect a savings of $300 per car on the purchase of two new squad cars for our local police.

A representative of Region 2 of the federal department of Housing and Urban Development will meet with city officials on June 1 to inquire into the question of whether Greenbelt might be eligible to receive federal funds under the urban renewal act of 1965 and, if such eligibility is established, whether such a program would be feasible here.

City manager James K. Giese and several members of city council are expecting to attend the dinner meeting of the Prince Georges Municipal Association on May 19. All of council, as well as Giese and his assistant, Michael Fischetti, plan to attend the June 5-7 conference of the Maryland Municipal League in Ocean City. Giese will officiate as chairman of the City and Town Administrators Dept. at a breakfast meeting on June 6.

Lost and Found

The city "Lost and Found" is under the jurisdiction of the city police department. They have an accumulation of several years including many watches, wallets (some with and some without money), eyeglasses, and a warehouseful of bicycles. They would like to make room for other items so if you have lost something you might inquire if they have found it. They also are good at finding lost children.

The Police Blotter

Another attempted pickup occurred this past week in the vicinity of Northway and Crescent. Two 13 year old girls were walking down Northway toward the Center, past a parked car whose driver waved at them. As they approached Crescent the driver overtook them and motioned them to the car. The girls turned and ran off in the other direction. Police are looking for a white man in his 40s, partly bald with grey hair, driving a light blue car with Virginia tags.

Klein's nursery was the scene of a violent argument between two D.C. ladies, which resulted in one lady getting a squirt of tear gas in her face. Police arrested the other lady but no charges were placed.

The A&P was the scene of a pick-pocket operation that was discovered only when the victim found her wallet missing at the check-out stand. The technique used is simple. Two men approach their intended victim. One man engages the victim in conversation (in this case she was asked to read a label) while the other man lifts the wallet. The pickpockets were described as two negro males in their mid and late 20s. One weighed about 160 lbs. and wore a light colored jacket and glasses, the other weighed about 210 lb. and wore a dark overcoat.

A lady in Boxwood had her wallet rifled one evening last week when she went out to visit a friend and left her wallet on an end table. Since her children were home she left the door unlocked. Apparently someone entered the house unnoticed and left quite a bit richer.

Ceramic tile valued at $43 was stolen from a Boxwood house under construction. That same night, on another street in Boxwood, quantities of lumber and building materials were destroyed.

Three children were arrested when police noticed them damaging the aluminum sidings on a portable building at North End School. The children were released to their parents.

Annie's Coffee Shop, a snack trailer at the construction area in Springhill Lake was broken into, with quantities of cigarettes and the change in the Coke machine stolen. The thief broke a panel in the glass door and let himself in.

A 21" portable TV was stolen from a room at the Convalescent Center during the weekend. The building was locked and there was no sign of forced entry. The thief, finding the TV still in its box, removed the set and left the box behind.

For those of you coming home between 1 and 2 a.m. Sunday morning and finding yourself detoured through Parkway, the cause was a man who lost control of his car and succeeded in damaging two other cars in the process of stopping. The fire engine you saw was on its way home after a call, and stopped to be of assistance.

There was the usual number of thefts from autos and the usual car stolen for a joy-ride and found on Glen Dale Rd. Most of this occurs when cars are left unlocked on one of the throughways. If you can't park in a court, try to remember to lock your car.

Police have several prospects for the two openings for uniformed officers. However, they are still accepting applications from qualified people. For further information, contact Chief Lane, 474-5454.

April has been the busiest month so far this year. There were 25 accidents of which 9 involved personal injury. This compares with April 1965 figures of 17 accidents with 13 involving personal injury.

Mrs. C. T. Reed

Mrs. Catherine Tighe Reed, 4716 Oliver St., Riverdale, first principal of Center School (1937-43) died on May 16. She is survived by her sister, Miss Ruth Tighe.

St. Hugh's Annual Dinner

St. Hugh's will hold its annual roast beef dinner on Thursday, May 26, between 5 and 8 p.m. in the St. Hugh's church hall. On the menu are meat, potatoes, green beans, home-made bread, dessert and beverage.

Speaking Sternly

On Being Taken for Granted

Every morning before breakfast I open my front door and there is the morning's newspaper. Most people take such things for granted, but to me it always seems like a minor miracle to find the paper there. As I bend down to pick it up, my thoughts wander to night reporters riding police cruisers to scenes of robbery and accident, to teletypes clicking out messages from Saigon, Rhodesia and Cape Kennedy, to editors striving to put all the news fit to print in order - neatly sandwiched between notices of special sales and of fabulous bargains - ahead of an unyielding deadline and to machines spinning out miles of newsprint, folding, cutting and baling it neatly to be rushed by delivery trucks while you and I are soundly asleep. Last but by no means least, it makes me think of the youngster who gets up in the dark to deliver my paper, come rain or snow (tuck it under the doormat on windy days) and who, whenever he's down with the flu, somehow always manages to find an older brother or a willing daddy to take his route over. It is a daily miracle as far as I am concerned, all for the price of a dime.

One comes naturally to that attitude when one works on the Greenbelt News Review. You don't take a newspaper for granted after having helped write one, be it ever so humble.

We, too, have our minor miracle every week, beginning with a disorderly pile of papers around 8 p.m. each Tuesday and ending 3 or 4 hours later when, incredibly, the edition is all ready for printing. In those few hours the basement of 15 Parkway, shared with plumbing and electric meters and with what must be the largest collection of discarded paperbacks in town, turns into a beehive of frantic activity. Typewriters clack furiously, articles get written and rewritten only to be chopped off by the editor, letters-to-the-editor are edited into less offensive language, while the coffee and the cookie box pass around and the week's news - printable and otherwise - is hotly debated. Even "Speaking Sternly" has its round with the literary critics.

I suppose we all do it because we enjoy it. Certainly, we did not join the "News Review" for the long hours one spends on this kind of business, nor for the money involved, for if there was ever a non-profit organization that lived up to its name, it's ours. Neither is it for the glory of seeing one's name in newsprint - one just ceases to care for this kind of publicity once one realizes what a shortlived and transient thing a weekly paper is. It must then be the fun of being at the center of things that makes it worth while, the satisfaction of knowing that even if we are not always the community's eyes and ears, we can at least claim to be its bulletin board and sounding board.

There is quite a traffic in and out of the basement on Tuesday nights - irate citizens bearing letters to the editor or composing them on one of our ramshackle typewriters, city councilmen making sure they haven't been misquoted, staff members with late-breaking stories and just-plain-folks placing a classified sale ad for their '50 Chevy. Now and then, though, there will be a different kind of visitor, edging cautiously past the door and shyly asking whether they have come to the right place. I am new in Greenbelt, they usually say and would like to become active in the Community. Could I possibly be of any help here?

It is for visitors of this kind, past and future, that my story is written. Yes, we need your help: it takes many willing hands and minds to produce a community newspaper, and somehow it seems there are never enough of these around. Whether you are a newcomer to the area or have been here for years and just have not made up your mind yet, we invite you to come down and join the team. You do not need any previous knowledge: a willingness to help and a little of the creative urge is all that's needed. Everything else you'll learn as you go along, the way the rest of us did. So come - we have a place waiting. It's all up to you!

GODDARD HAS OPEN HOUSE

NASA's Goddard Space Flight Center at Greenbelt, Md. will hold a public "open house" on Saturday, May 21. Visiting hours will be from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

This year the entire Center is open to public viewing and residents of the Washington-Baltimore area will learn, through movies, live demonstrations, and exhibits just how the NASA Center's 3,600-person staff carries out an ambitious program for the exploration of the earth's environment in space. The Center has been responsible for approximately half of the earth satellites orbited by NASA.

In addition to seeing actual satellites under construction and test, visitors will be able to visit computing, communications and tracking facilities used in manned and unmanned space flight. NASA Spacemobile personnel will, through lecture demonstrations, provide an overview of NASA programs and of related scientific principles.

There will also be a sounding rocket display. Goddard is responsible for launching more than 100 of these smaller-type rockets each year. Visitors also will be able to see Mercury, Gemini and Apollo manned space flight capsules.

Cafeterias will be open to serve soft drinks and light snacks. In case of rain, the open house will be postponed until Saturday, May 28. Parking will be provided and visitors are urged to bring their cameras. Large groups of children should be accompanied by an adult.

Visitors may also see aircraft used by the Center to calibrate and check out instrumentation at tracking stations. The Center operates all over the world. The aircraft are stationed at the Bendix Terminal at Friendship Airport in Baltimore and visiting hours are the same as for the Center.

Lastner Opens Convalescent Center

A ribbon-cutting ceremony marked the formal opening of the new Greenbelt Convalescent Center last Sunday, May 15. The ribbon was cut by County Commissioner Frank Lastner, the Reverend Jasper Morris of the Greenbelt Baptist Church and Mrs. Kip Schlader, administrator of the convalescent home. Mayor Edgar L. Smith, who had been invited to participate in the ceremonies, was unable to attend. Mrs. Jasper Morris then led the Baptist choir in a rendition of "Bless This House".

Following the opening ceremonies, an open house was held, attended by over 300 dignitaries and members of the public. Representing the owners were Charles Bresler and his family and Michael Levitt; State Senator Fred Wine-land also attended.

The building is now completely furnished and is most attractive, with individual color schemes in the patients' rooms. There are accommodations for 16 private patients and 78 semi-private patients.

Mrs. Marian Lewis, Janice McGlothlin and Mary Hanlon, all of Greenbelt, acted as hostesses and took visitors on a tour of the building.

The convalescent center is now being inspected by state and county officials for accreditation and should be ready to receive the first patients by next Tuesday.

In addition two vital overpasses will be needed. One over the Beltway, requiring negotiations with the States Roads Commission and the Federal Government; the other over the B-W Parkway.

The APB saw two alternatives with respect to the latter.

(1) Make the NASA interchange a full interchange connecting the perimeter on either side of the Parkway. Goddard Space Flight Center, however, is most adamant on keeping the existing interchange a private one.

(2) Construct another overpass over the Parkway. This would require right-of-way through the school property, in addition to assistance from Federal government, SRC, and landowners on either side of Parkway.

Ovens that clean themselves...

Ovens that bake a cake in six minutes...

Ranges that do your stirring...

(Only electricity can do!)

No wonder the switch is on to flameless electric cooking. Just take a look at the exciting features you can get only on new electric ranges:

Self-cleaning oven, available this year on more models than ever, at prices that are lower than ever. Just set two dials and pull a lever. Two hours later, except for a small bit of ash you whisk away in seconds, your oven is clean again. Cost? About 7¢ per cleaning. Only electricity has it!

Electronic ovens that bake a two-layer cake in six minutes, a five-pound roast in just 30 minutes, using microwaves instead of ordinary heat. The food gets hot . . . but your oven does not. Only electricity has it!

Automatic stirrer practically does away with food scorching and sticking. A special magnet hidden under one of the surface elements turns the stirrer automatically. Only electricity has it!

No matter which flameless electric range you buy, and no matter what special features you choose, you can be sure of clean, cool, precise cooking at a cost of just 2¢ a meal for the average family of four.
